

IELTS Writing: Before & After Correction Book

Book 25 · See weak writing become clearer — then do the same on Stratum

Stratum IELTS · stratumielts.com

Edition 2026 · Original content

How to use this book

1. Read the Before paragraph.
2. Note the problems (task, clarity, grammar, fake style).
3. Study the After version + "What changed".
4. Rewrite one of your paragraphs the same way.
5. Paste both versions into <https://stratumielts.com> and compare feedback.

This book sells the habit your product creates: draft → feedback → rewrite.

Set 1 — Vague opinion body

Before

Online education is very good for people because it is important in modern society and has many advantages for students and also workers who need it a lot today.

After

Online education improves access for people who cannot attend campus classes. Students in small towns can join lectures without relocating, and workers can study after shifts. As a result, learning becomes possible for groups that traditional timetables often exclude.

What changed: specific benefit + who + mechanism + result. Deleted empty "very good/important".

Set 2 — No clear position

Before

Some people say university should be free. There are advantages and disadvantages. It depends on the situation and every coin has two sides.

After

Some people argue that university tuition should be free for all students. I partly agree: governments should support low-income learners strongly, but unlimited free tuition for everyone may weaken quality if funding is insufficient.

What changed: direct stance + limited condition. Removed template clichés.

Set 3 — Fake statistic example

Before

According to a recent survey, 82% of teenagers became depressed because of social media in 2024, so it is extremely dangerous.

After

For example, many teenagers compare their lives with edited posts and feel pressure about appearance or success. Over time, this comparison can increase anxiety and reduce focus on real routines such as sleep and study.

What changed: realistic scenario instead of invented percentage.

Set 4 — Linker spam

Before

Firstly, public transport is useful. Moreover, it is cheap. Furthermore, it reduces cars. Additionally, it is good for the environment. Besides, governments should invest.

After

Public transport is useful because it moves large numbers of people at a lower cost per trip than private cars. When cities improve buses and metro lines, fewer drivers enter peak-hour traffic, which also lowers emissions.

What changed: ideas connected by logic, not “moreover stack”.

Set 5 — Off-task waffle intro

In this contemporary epoch, transportation has always been a bone of contention among intellectuals and laymen alike since the dawn of civilisation...

After

Traffic congestion is a serious problem in many cities. Some people believe higher fuel prices are the best solution, while others prefer better public transport. I support public transport investment as the fairer long-term approach.

What changed: paraphrase + both views + position. No fake academic theatre.

Set 6 — Grammar overload

Before

Were the authorities implementing more stricter rules which being necessary for the peoples, the pollution would have been decreased significantly by them in the cities.

After

If authorities introduced stricter rules, pollution in cities would decrease.

What changed: short, controlled conditional. Accuracy > range.

Set 7 — Task 1 no overviewBefore

The graph shows visitors. In 2010 it was 40. In 2012 it was 55. In 2014 it was 50. In 2016 it was 70...

After (overview + start)

Overall, visits rose over the period despite a mid-decade dip, and ended far above the 2010 starting point. In 2010, visits stood at 40 thousand, then climbed to 55 thousand by 2012 before a slight fall to 50 thousand in 2014.

What changed: big picture first, then selected details.

Set 8 — Two-part imbalanceBefore

Young people move to cities for jobs and universities and lifestyle and entertainment and better internet and more opportunities... (180 words)
It is positive. (1 sentence)

After plan

Body 1: reasons (jobs + education) with example

Body 2: judgement (mostly positive for individuals; urban pressure) with example

Equal depth for both tasks.

Practice lab (your turn)

Take your last essay and rewrite:

1. Introduction (clear position)
2. One body paragraph (idea + explanation + real example)
3. One sentence that used a fake statistic

Then submit Before + After to Stratum IELTS.
